

These pictures show two groups that have the same number but look different.

What number can you see in both groups? How do the groups look different?

Where can you find two groups that have the same number but look different?

You can take a picture, make a sketch, or bring objects back to show.

Bring back at least two examples of groups that show the same number but look different.

Off You Go!