

This picture shows things that could be skip counted.

What could you skip count in this image? How would you do it?

Where can you find things that could be skip counted in your world?

You can take a picture, make a sketch, or bring objects to show.
Bring back at least one example of something that could be skip counted.

Off You Go!