

This picture shows some collections that are too many to count.
Which of these collections do you think would be too many to count?

What collections can you find that would be too many to count?

You can take a picture, make a sketch, or bring objects to show.
Bring back at least one example of a collection that is too many to count.

Off You Go!